Wine + Design

I leave for Napa Valley for a week on Sunday (I'll be blogging the trip as it unfolds) and I am quite excited for many reasons- staying at the Carneros Inn, eating at Bouchon, walking Main Street in St. Helena...but mostly I'm psyched for the wine. I enjoy me some wine. Call me a wino if you will, and I'll take the title with a smile and a click of the glass to you. But I'm no wine snob- oh no. I often select my wine based on how pretty the label is. I'm hoping my Napa trip will make me a more informed wine consumer, but I will never ever tire of well designed packaging. So when I saw the Jaqk Wine Cellars playing card inspired bottles over on Oh Joy today I did a little happy dance. How chic! How pretty to have in your wine rack! Let's pop that cork! I'm hoping the gorgeous wine store on my block will get some of these in soon!
